

Get trained. Get OSHA compliant. Get 2 for 1.

Send one for training, send another for free.*

That's right—during October, November, and December, when you send two operators to Equipco for operator training, you only pay for one and we'll train the other for free. At Equipco, we help you get smart and save!

Why have my operators trained?

Many companies don't realize that by properly training their forklift operators they can save thousands of dollars in lost time, damaged products, or fines from OSHA for not being in compliance with guidelines associated with operator training. Fortunately, having your operators trained at Equipco ensures that they will be properly certified and is more affordable than you might think.

- Keep your operators trained and certified.
- Make your operators aware of proper techniques associated with safe operating.
- Eliminate worries of a non-compliant OSHA inspection.
- Eliminate equipment down time with daily checks.
- Reduce the amount of money spent in repairing equipment, building damage, and product damage due to misuse.
